First of all, the result is the triumph of a free and fearless press. In surveying the largely due to the courage, the fidelity, and the ability of one great journal, the New York Times. The battle was, in fact, at the outset a contest between that fundamental principle of a popular Govern-

a free government, we must pay the price, and the price is care, and thought, and trouble, and labor and sacrifice. Tweed and the Tammany Rung ruled the city because thousands of intelligent and refined porsons bated politics, and thought that no gustleman could touch them without contamination, and recolled from the name of politician, and thought that the Tammany Rung was no worse than those who would break it. But the Tammany ring, and all similar politics iringe, make politics disgusting end repulsive for this very purpose. They wish to disgust and to repel bonest and decent men, for then they are sure of having their own unclean way. And every formest man who suffers himself to be repelled, who refrains from an active stare in politics, who never goes to the primaries nor to the conventions, betrays honesty and his country, and bends himself and others to such a mirerable yoke as that which has just been apurned.

FRIEND BLOSS: Enclosed I send you letter written to me by Professor Minetti late of the School of Mines in Paris, who has made the subject treated of a specialty both in this country and Europe for the has a larger circulation than may last nine years. The statements made and the great practical results obtained, are substantiated by incontrovertible evidence. I have carefully examined the patents and drawings of the inventors have their circulars and other data, and am satisfied that a substitute for coal and wood has at last been found. Its importance to the oil regions, and the glass and iron manufacturers of Pittsburgh cannot be over-estimated. By this method : vapor generator or fuel feeder of suitable size, centrally placed, will supply a dozen or more boilers, iron or glass furnaces with fiame and heat of any required amount and intensity, using as a basis

I am not at all interested in this invention more than my connection with the oil production and its consumption. Be lieving it to be the most useful of all the many apparatus which have from time to time been brought to our notice, I should willingly impart such information as I possess to any of our friends who may desire I to make a practical application of the new fuel system. I think the Professor's letter would prove interesting to the many that petroleum can be profitably used as fael, though not in a liquid form. But it is not fair to assume as a fixed basis that anthracite always evaporates nearly eleven times its weight of water. Experimentally, of course, we can make it do that, even better; but laboratory tests are very unsafe criterions to rely upon. On the contrary, it is well known, that practically, in steamships and cleewhere, five popuds of water to one of coal is about the average of evaporation; while in the use of liquid or rather vapor fuel, the results in practice will slways come fully up to the experiment test for, the reason that the longer the fice is kept up, and the more intense the heat at and about the point of combustion, the greater is the oconomy in fuel! This may almost seem paradoxical, yet I assert it fearlessly rather inclined to favor the opinion that it was poured in at the top—that it was not the crude exudation of the cirth's bowels which flows from the artifinal punctures in the carboniferous regions of our Eistern states. The oil has all the appearance of rafined petroleum, and for that reason it was believed that the owner of the land on which the well is located was endeavoring to create an oil excitement by artificial means which would bring profit to his own pocket. The geological formation of this portion of the country renders it theoretically in possible to obtain napths from the strate rock underlying us, and if it be true that this is an oil well, the theories of reien-tific wen are headed off and they must attribute the origin of the oils of the earth to some other substance than coal. It is well known that no coul exists within our state, the surface of this portion of the earth being below carboniferous forma-tion. It is true that the Illinois coal beds-are not for distant, but the stratified argue that the dropping; of the Illinois ngeinst natural laws as to run up hill. But this particular oil well is to be tested. We understand it has already been leased to a company of men, one of whom has had considerable experience in the Penusylvania oil regions, and that they have sufficient faith in the enterprise to invest their money and time in its development.

Derrick says: A new well was struck at companies affected by that calamity. Parker's Lunding on Tuesday, belonging In order to relieve this doubt, so fe to S. W. Morehead and F. GEO. J. LUCE. CATES' PATENT Attractive Prices. BACK SUCTION PREVENTIVE

> Which entirely prevents the ingress of air into oil wells while the tubing is being drawn.

It is a well known fact to all well operators that upon wells where generous used, it may necessary to preserve as nounty a returned, it may possible, and that no are aloud to be it into the well at any time when it can possibly be avoided, consequently whenever the thing is drawn from a well it is the cause of great injury to it, as the stuffing how being then necessarily opened, the sair immediately ruskes back between the tubing and casing into the well, going into the oil rock and gas rense, and consequently clussing the oil and gas to rush back to a grent distance. It almost always takes several days after purning is resumed for a well to be brought back to its former cond thou, and oftentimes it takes several weeks, and quite frequently wells have been almost completely runed by the air tenug thus let in while drawing tubing. The Back Suction Preventive is attacked to the studing bux, and works in a chi way that it completely purned by the air tenug thus let in which is an get through at any time while the two lings being always and replaced. It supplies a want long felt and is without one of the day to bose engaged in the oil profugns business. Nowell should be without one, set off intimes savesten times the cost by once using.
